My name is Santosh. I have more than 10 years of experience in software engineering. I am a web developer, iPhone & android developer, iPhone game and app developer. I love to share my knowledge and experience and help you to grow your business. Why this company isn't going under - jsatok ====== rdlecler1 There is a growing swath of the middle class, especially in rural areas, that has never had the opportunity to become wealthy. It is the gardeners and farming and construction workers that make up the bulk of the fast food restaurant industry. ------ jsatok A colleague was in a heated discussion about the company with an ex-employee recently. The conversation focused on how they still had a small team of people just doing manual accounting for tens of millions of dollars of sales, how they were still spending money on travel etc. I'm no expert on the autozone business, but I had the sense that for all the good things about their organization, it was the 'culture' of the business that was the main reason they were not going under. Does anyone else have insights or anecdotes on this? ~~~ rdlecler1 I think the real danger is that they're too successful. There is also a very small amount of people who are very
