College career Born in Pacific Grove, California, King attended Pacific Grove High School, where he was a three-sport star in football, basketball, and baseball. In high school, he played quarterback, running back, defensive back, and linebacker for the Pacific Grove Seahawks. His high school career was highlighted by throwing for a school-record 452 yards in only four quarter of football. He went on to play college football at Stanford University, where he was a quarterback. He started games at quarterback during his redshirt sophomore and junior seasons, but was on the injury list for both seasons. As a senior in 2005, King started 11 of Stanford's 13 games, and threw for 1,802 yards and 14 touchdowns. King's most productive game came against the USC Trojans, who he threw three touchdown passes against. King completed 53% of his passes, while throwing a career high nine interceptions. King was named a second-team All-American by The Sports Network. He also won the 2005 Doak Walker Award, given to the nation's best running back. Professional career King was ranked by NFLDraftScout.com as the eighth best quarterback. King was drafted in the sixth round by the Miami Dolphins in the 2007 NFL Draft. 0cc13bf012

Dressed in mourning, her black crepe sombre in a perfect contrast to the elegance of the room. I imagine that I would be desperate to work up the courage to ask her why she is mourning, what has happened, where her husband is, or why her mourning is so formal. But I cannot say anything, for to address her in such a way would be impolite and disrespectful. But what if she turned to me and said, "I can only answer your question by telling you that I am preparing to die, and that I have prepared for death as all of my life. It is to the life and love of my husband and family that I have given my life, and to the continued mystery of death and love I can only say that I have been to the mountaintop and I feel I am wise." This is the story of my life and that of my five year old daughter. As a boy I watched death everywhere, of mothers, fathers and brothers and sisters of my friends. It did not matter how young I was, they were already dead. Now in the war, my friends are dying and we in the war, I am dead. So as the weeks grow short, and the nights become longer, my mind drifts back to the story I have told many times, of my dead and their goodness. It begins, as it must, with the birth of the flowers, my five year old daughter. She is beautiful and I could never
